

Silver Bullion Trust Announces Appointment of Jason Schwandt as Lead Trustee and Chair of the Corporate Governance and Nominating Committee of the Board of Trustees

Reminds Unitholders to continue to REJECT the opportunistic Sprott Offer

(Toronto, ON, August 7, 2015) – Silver Bullion Trust (“SBT”) (symbol: TSX – SBT.UN (C$) and SBT.U (US$)) today announced that Jason A. Schwandt has been appointed as Lead Trustee and Chair of the Corporate Governance and Nominating Committee of the Board of Trustees of SBT. Mr. Schwandt is an engineer and for over ten years served in various management roles in engineering, operations and corporate strategy at former IBM electronics manufacturing arm Celestica Inc. He is currently president of J.A. Schwandt Engineering Inc. and has served as a Trustee of SBT since 2012.

Mr. Schwandt has agreed to assume these roles at a critical time when SBT is facing a hostile take-over bid by Sprott Asset Management LP and Sprott Physical Silver Trust (collectively, “Sprott”) for all outstanding Units of SBT (the “Sprott Offer”). Mr. Schwandt stated, “I am grateful for the opportunity to take on additional responsibilities in the governance of SBT at this critical time. Together with my fellow Trustees I am strongly of the view that SBT’s superior fee structure that is approximately 40% lower than Sprott, superior bullion security, vastly superior governance and Unitholder rights, more favourable tax structure and superior leverage to rising bullion prices clearly place Unitholders in a better position than the Sprott Offer can, and urge our SBT Unitholders to retain their Units.”

Mr. Schwandt replaces Mr. Ian McAvity who stepped down as Lead Trustee of SBT and Chair of the Corporate Governance and Nominating Committee and as a member of the Special Committee of the Board of Trustees of SBT. Mr. McAvity will continue to serve as a member of the Board of Trustees of SBT.

Mr. McAvity stated, “It is unfortunate that Sprott has resorted to making disparaging attacks against me personally. I am stepping aside from these roles so that SBT Unitholders can focus on the important decision they face regarding the Sprott Offer and so that these desperate personal attacks by Sprott do not become a sideshow and distraction to SBT and its Unitholders. I look forward to continuing to support SBT and its Unitholders in my role as a Trustee of SBT.”

Bruce Heagle, Chair of the Special Committee of Independent Trustees of SBT, added: “Sprott’s hypocritical attacks on Mr. McAvity are clearly an attempt to distract Unitholders from focusing on the fact that the Sprott Offer does not provide meaningful value to SBT Unitholders. We find it very odd that Sprott’s self-serving attacks on Mr. McAvity come from a group that has no corporate governance structure, no Board of Trustees and no ability for their unitholders to oversee Sprott as manager.”

Mr. Heagle continued: “While Mr. McAvity has served the Board and Unitholders well for the past 6 years, I applaud his decision to step back from his committee roles and look forward to his continuing service to Unitholders in his role as a Trustee of SBT. I encourage all SBT Unitholders to review the Trustees’ Circular in detail prior to making any decisions regarding the Sprott Offer. We trust that our Unitholders will see the Sprott Offer for what it really is: a transparent and opportunistic attempt by Sprott to eliminate a competitor and generate additional management fees. The Sprott Offer provides no real benefit to Unitholders, but would result in higher fees, lower bullion security, reduced governance rights and increased tax risk. As always, we thank SBT Unitholders for their support and we look forward to continuing dialogue with our Unitholders.”

Additional Information and Where to Find It
